More courses also mean an increased likelihood that students will find courses that are meaningful to their personal and academic goals.

Assistant Professor of English and Linguistics Irina Shport is offering ENGL 2716/LING 2716 Language Diversity, Society, & Power. Department of English Chair Dr. Joseph Kronick and Linguistics Program Director Dr. Rafael Orozco have approved the inclusion of the cross-listed course (see attached emails).

Dear Drs. Kronick and Orozco,

I am writing to seek your permission to have ENGL 2716/LING 2716 Language Diversity, Society, & Power added to the LGBTQ Studies Minor for which I informally serve as the coordinator. I approached Dr. Shport (cc'd here), who will be teaching the course in the fall, and she has agreed to have it considered for the minor pending your approval and that of the Faculty Senate Courses and Curricula Committee. If you are willing to grant permission, all I would need from you is your signature on your respective response letters, which I've drafted and attached for your convenience (just replace the highlighted text with your own wording, and scan/email them back to me or send them to me via campus mail). I'm happy to answer any questions you may have about the minor. Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,

-Elaine

Wesley,

I’d like to add SW 2500 Introduction to LGBTQ Studies to the list of courses eligible for the Social Work Minor. Briefly, I had a student in SW 2500 last fall who was in the Social Work Minor. She wanted to use SW 2500 towards the minor, which she could do, but it had to be manually entered by the Registrar. If I formally add it to the SW Minor, it will be automatic, but more importantly, students in the SW Minor will see this additional elective. I need your permission, as director of the department housing the course, before proceeding to the MSW Curriculum Committee.
